Tasty Vegetarian Dishes

not a skerrick of meat or fish in sight.

fried eggplant and feta fattoush

Often a breakfast dish in the Middle East designed to make use of leftover pita, this recipe can easily be turned into a hearty evening meal.

Ingredients

¾ cup olive oil
2 Lebanese-style pita, cut into 3cm squares
1 large eggplant, cut into 2cm cubes
300g cherry tomatoes, halved
2 Lebanese cucumbers, finely chopped
1 red capsicum, seeded and finely chopped
½ red onion, finely sliced
1 cup loosely packed flat-leaf parsley, coarsely chopped
1 cup loosely packed mint leaves, coarsely chopped
6 radishes, thinly sliced on a mandoline
1 tbsp sumac
juice of ½ lemon
½ tsp honey
100g feta

Method

1. Heat a medium frying pan over medium heat and add the oil.
2. Fry the pita squares until crisp, then remove from the pan and drain. Drain oil from the pan until about ¼ cup remains and fry the eggplant for about 8 minutes, stirring occasionally until well browned and soft. Remove from the pan and set aside to cool with the pita.
3. Combine the pita and eggplant with all the remaining ingredients except the feta in a large bowl and toss to combine. The eggplant and pita will add quite a bit of oil to the mixture so you shouldn't need extra, but add some if necessary. Transfer to a serving plate, and crumble over the feta to serve.

Vegetarian cauliflower ragu pasta

Ingredients

400g cauliflower, roughly chopped
2 garlic cloves
10g packet dried porcini mushrooms
200g brown mushrooms
¼ cup extra virgin olive oil
1 brown onion, diced
1 carrot, finely chopped
1 cup red wine
1 tbsp tomato paste
2 cups tomato passata
1 tbsp chopped rosemary
400g spaghetti
½ cup finely grated pecorino, to serve
2 cups watercress, to serve

Method

1. Place the cauliflower, garlic and porcini mushrooms in a food processor and pulse until finely chopped. Set aside. Place the fresh mushrooms in the food processor and pulse until finely chopped.
2. Heat oil in a large saucepan over high heat. Add the onion, carrot, cauliflower mixture and mushroom mixture and cook, stirring, for 10 minutes or until starting to turn golden.
3. Add the wine and bring to a simmer. Add the tomato paste, passata and rosemary, reduce heat to low and simmer for a further 20 minutes, or until reduced and cauliflower is tender.
4. Cook pasta in boiling salted water for 6-8 minutes, or until al dente. Drain and serve with cauliflower ragu, watercress and cheese.

At 8.30am on Saturday morning with great turn out of people we had our very first Helicopter ball drop fundraiser. From the get-go for this fundraiser to go ahead we had to work hard and very quickly to get the tickets printed, find support and sponsors and get the 'ball' rolling! The support we received and the positive response right from the start, made this ball drop a very successful fundraiser.

After the balls were dropped out of the Helicopter by the pilot, Phil, a group of us went over with our tape measure to find the winner, the balls were so close!! There were four balls we had to measure numerous times in order to find the closest ball to the hole. There was just 1mm between 1st and 2nd place!

Our winning ball who won the $1000 and got a special phone call live at the Golf course from Mr Mc Bride, was Albie Lunn (very special winner... Albie happens to be the oldest living resident who attended the Hanmer Springs School 125 anniversary, what a super few weeks Albie has had!). 2nd place winning the $500 was the '7 boy syndicate' (a group of Mr McBride's friends). Congratulations to these two and thank you for your support!

We are very proud to share with our community that we manage to raise just over $13,000 for our school, we are over whelmed with this amount that we managed to raise in such a short period of time. The children are going to benefit greatly from this.

Thank you to the Home and School ball drop committee, Harley Manion, Cindy Van Vledder, Rosalind Kelly, Jackie Thomas and Kirsty Flavell. With out this group of parents this wouldn't of went ahead. Thank you to our helpers, Jill Robinson, Kirsty G, Barbara, Rebecca, Mike, Christine and our awesome Principal John McBride. Such an awesome group getting stuck in, all with the same end goal – wanting to better Hanmer Springs School.

Thank you to the Hanmer Spring Animal Park, Halo Design and Hanmer Springs Thermal Pools and Spa for your spot prizes which were received so well on the day.

Thank you to Ross Carter at Hanmer Springs Adventure for the Epic 3rd place prize, we at Hanmer Springs School always appreciate your support Ross. Congratulations to Nadine Cuff who was lucky enough to win this prize package, with the 3rd closet ball to the hole!

Thank you to our main sponsor Harcourts Four Seasons Realty and Monteiths Hanmer Brewery Bar. To Mike at the Golf Course for help making this happen- your awesome! Mike went out of his way to have a ring round and collect us up golf balls so we didn't have to purchase them 😊

Last THANK YOU goes to Daniel and Phil at AMURI HELICOPTERS for allowing this to go ahead, for making every effort to work around the weather and working in with us when it had to get postponed.

We would also like to acknowledge Emily Sinclair and Eloise. Eloise is a student at our school, her family managed to sell the most tickets within our school winning her a free helicopter ride! Great effort selling close to 30 tickets at $20 each.

The real value of a property valuation

The most recent property valuations are out and have been causing a fair amount of conversation around the Hurunui District, and nationwide.

By law, local authorities are required to update the values at least every three years. Quotable Value New Zealand is contracted by Council to maintain the rating valuations in the District and carry out the revaluation. The revaluation process is audited by the Office of the Valuer General before new valuations are posted to owners. The 2022 valuation will be used to set rates from the 2023/24 year.

Rating valuations are based on market values, a snapshot of the market at a fixed point in time.

Jason Beck, Chief Financial Officer at Hurunui District Council, is aware of the misconceptions around what a property valuation means to the ratepayer.

He has identified the common misunderstanding that a revaluation will mean increased rates but assures this is not the case.

He explained that generally, the ratepayers whose property value increased less than the average increase in rating valuation across the District will pay less rates, compared to those whose property value has increased by more than the average, who subsequently will pay more because of the revaluation.

“For most ratepayers these changes are not significant unless their value change is significantly different than the average change.”

Beck clarified that rates are driven up by the increasing costs to Councils for providing services such as libraries, parks, emergency management and street cleaning, and providing water and roads as part of key infrastructure.

“A valuation allows us to make sure the rates paid are accurate and shared fairly across the District.”

In other words, the rates amount on a particular property is affected by the total amount of rates revenue required to fund the services and programmes approved by the Council in the annual budget, and the number of new properties created through growth.

Some clarification around land value and capital value also helps to understand the revaluation process.

Land value is the market value of the unimproved land, and capital value is the market value of the improved land, including any dwellings or buildings. Capital value does not consider emotional factors like sea views, waterfront access and building appeal, which can at sale time make a big difference to an asking price.

Blah, Blah, Blah

On September 28, 2021, at the Youth4Climate conference, held in Milan, Greta Thunberg took the stage. Sitting near her was the city's mayor, Giuseppe Sala, wearing a mask.

Thunberg, who is five feet tall, could barely be seen over the lectern. She had removed her mask and was smiling.

"Climate change is not only a threat, it is above all an opportunity to create a healthier, greener, and cleaner planet which will benefit all of us," she began. "We must seize this opportunity—we can achieve a win-win in both ecological conservation and high-quality development. . . . We need to walk the talk; if we do this together, we can do this."

"When I say 'climate change,' what do you think of?" she went on. "I think of jobs—green jobs." This received a round of applause.

"We must find a smooth transition towards a low-carbon economy," Thunberg said. "There is no Planet B. There is no Planet Blah—blah, blah, blah; blah, blah, blah."

Her listeners, including Sala, started to realize that they'd been had.

The applause died down.

"Green economy—blah, blah, blah.

"Net zero by 2050—blah, blah, blah.

"Net zero—blah, blah, blah.

"Climate neutral—blah, blah, blah.

"This is all we hear from our so-called leaders: words—words that sound great, but so far have led to no action," Thunberg said.

"Of course we need constructive dialogue, but they've now had thirty years of blah, blah, blah, and where has that led us?"

Blah blah.

"The improvement value is merely the difference between capital value and land value and is not related to the construction or installation cost of any improvements."

Beck urged property owners to keep their record up to date at Council, with any renovations or improvements.

If property owners are unhappy with their revaluation, they have an opportunity to object. Property owners have a statutory right to object to their rating valuation following a revaluation review. They can be lodged online on the Quotable Value website, or in writing.

"The Council is committed to having its valuation rolls as accurate as possible and encourages property owners to use this new initiative to check records and let us know about new information or correct any errors."

The general revaluation reviews rating values for the whole district are at three-yearly intervals. The next rating valuation will be held in 2025, then in 2028.

Pinkie Costs

Each week The Pinkie is called upon by local groups, organisations and charities to provide them with free space to publicise events or to raise money. We are very conscious of trying to do our best to support everyone, but from time to time we do need to charge these groups a proportion of the cost, simply in order to cover our ever increasing costs.

During the month of October we gave away $2,485 worth of advertising space and in addition ran several free editorial articles. This does not include things like the school's weekly contributions or sports activities and results or free classified advertising.

Readers may also have noted that we are employing more colour and often, an additional number of pages. All of this costs, and our production charges have risen by as much as 65% for some items.

You may have noted that we are introducing some small increases in advertising charges, but to be honest they do not cover many of our costs increases.

Nevertheless, we shall not be putting out Stuff-like begging letters. Our aim remains being a free paper that serves the whole community with a vehicle for news and opinions, as well as publicising causes and products.

Tom Davies, some personal reflections.

He aha te mea nui o te ao? He tangata he tangata he tangata!

What is the most important thing in the world. The people, the people, the people.

The last few weeks have been a very busy time for us all. No doubt we are casting our thoughts to Christmas, and I notice some trees and decorations are already appearing. But what I have also noticed is the generosity of our community. Even with prices rising and our wages and pensions being stretched I see huge acts of generosity in our community.

Our school has seen an outpouring of kindness as we have celebrated our 125 year anniversary. Past staff and students came from all over NZ and Australia to share memories. With raffles, cakes, tree plantings, a beautiful Anniversary Chair from Jonathon Gardner and the men's shed it was a weekend to remember. The School, students and staff, Board of Trustees and The Home School group all went the extra mile to make the celebrations go well. With fundraisers and raffles the school stands to benefit well from our kindness. And how cool is the Golf Ball drop, sadly cancelled first time round due to poor visibility, but I can't wait to see 1000 golf balls dropped from a Helicopter and one lucky person scooping $1000. With a smaller Stars in Their Eyes coming, and plant and clothes sales, this has been an excellent year of assisting the school.

But our community doesn't stop there. The recent Anglican Fete raised many thousands of dollars, through bric a brac, plants cakes and competitions. The local food bank too is an ever present support for some in our community. That first came to my attention during the first Lock Down and I clearly remember them closing donations temporarily as they had too much money.

A big shout out to all those volunteers and groups that do so much in our community. I know the Lions Christmas lunch for the pensioners is coming up as is the Hurunui Community Christmas Dinner at Amberley Domain on the 18th. Dec 2.30pm (Free tickets available normally $10 per family).

Another shout out for Saints. They went the extra mile to ensure the Year 8 School Leavers had a wonderful leaving dinner. The staff and students thoroughly enjoyed the meal and the food and service was excellent. Thanks.

Community Vehicle Update

The vision of the HS Health Centre, operating under the HS Community Trust, an initiative devised by Paul Walmsley, is to setup a volunteer group to provide a community transport service to assist those needing to travel to medical, hospital or other health related appointments.

Paul has already obtained some funding towards a vehicle and offers of help from some in our community. He is now looking for more help and support. Ideas, funding, donations, sponsorship, drivers, vehicle maintenance are all needed. If you think you would like to be part of this wonderful initiative, please contact Paul on 020 4070 6380 or myself. No offer is too small.

Remi Update

Thank you for all your concern, our Granddaughter, born at just 24 weeks has now survived 110 days in hospital and is thriving. On Wednesday 30th November she will finally leave hospital to go home. Early days but she will still be on oxygen and have a feeding tube but our health service have performed miracles. We will be eternally grateful.

Tena kotou Katoa. Have a brilliant week.

125 Year HS School Celebration

Journalists: Amelia Saric, Sharnie Inglis and Amelia Nelson

Writers: Amelia Saric, Amelia Nelson

On Friday the 17 November the whole school celebrated the 125th year the school has been open. We started off the day with a surprise which was Little Joe's Carriage, so we went in groups of eight and the horse named Gem walked around the field and gave all the children who were up to it rides on the carriage from 8:30-9:00 am.

When the old school bell rang by students we all went into the assembly room Piwakawaka. Some past students and a past teacher and some of the current students were on the panel and they both had to answer some questions like what were the punishments you would get if you were in trouble.

After the quiz we all went outside onto the court to have cake and cupcakes. They were delicious. We sang happy birthday to our school and then the youngest and oldest student attending our school got to cut the cake.

After we had finished eating and singing it was time to ring the olden days school bell to let us out to morning tea. We went back to class after morning tea. After lunch we started touring former students around the school. We took the former students through the classrooms around the field and even showed our new school mural. After the tours we went down to the Memorial Hall and did a massive assembly which included a haka kapa performance and pop choir performance. The candidates running for head student opened the time capsule and took out the things in it. The funniest thing in there was a glass coke bottle with the letter attached wondering if we still drank coke. Then the whole school came up on stage to put their thing in the time capsule and took their place for Madagascar. We sang 'I like to move it' and 'it's showtime'. It sounded amazing, after that we all went back to school.

Ready for the following days events. These included the golf ball drop, tree planting, morning tea, astroturf official opening and the opening of the 125 year anniversary seat.

125 Reunion

It was a rainy cold day and the ball drop was postponed. But the rest of advents carried out as they were supposed to, the tree was planted by the youngest student in the school Taylor Barnes and the oldest student at the reunion Albert Lunn. and the seat was unveiled by the same people and Rosemary Ensor in memory of her late Husband Peter Ensor. The astroturf was opened by Councillor (and our teacher) Tom Davies. After that we all went back to have morning tea and look around the museum of Hanmer Springs School. It turned out to be a great reunion and there was a band playing. The Notables with Ros Kelly singing were awesome.

Canterbury Cricket

On Friday 25th November Liam Foulkes from Canterbury Country Cricket Association came to the school to help us with our cricket skills. After a warm up we practiced hitting the ball, running and catching. On a hot sunny day it was huge fun. It got us out of the class and active.

The whole school from the youngest to the oldest took part.

A Walk on the Wild Side

On Wednesday 23rd November the whole school went on a walk into the heritage forest. The older students paired with the younger students. Mr McBride led us and Mr Davies was at the back. Lots of parents and grandparents came too. I was with Lachie Donaldson. We walked for about an hour. We looked at the sculptures under the cool trees. Some of us climbed on the sculptures too. My favourite sculpture is the eagle because it is huge and realistic. One of the best activities was us all climbing on a huge fallen tree trunk. We heard all the birds of our classrooms and values, Piwakawaka, tui, korimako, kereru and Kārearea. We also saw lots of trees both native and exotic.

It was a really hot and exhausting when we got back to school and we were grateful to go home.

The Yr 4 Waterfall Walk

By Timmy Van Vledder

Whoosh, Whoosh, a gust of wind went past. Splash, splat, the water was so powerful that when I tried to fill my bottle up, I got soaked. On the Way back we decided to run down the hill. It was funny when my shoe flung off like a race car. Finally we made it.. I felt a sense of relief and of success.
