Hanmer Springs to use sulphur aroma to lift tourism standing

Hanmer Springs Thermal Pools and Spa is now sharing the famous aroma from its sulphur pools with the rest of the South Island village.

Starting today, the complex is capturing the aroma in smellitisers, a system commonly used at Disney World, and sharing them with businesses across the village at no cost.

General Manager Graeme Abbot says smell has a strong link to emotion and scent marketing is well-practised around the world.

“Businesses use aromas to entice customers into their premises, to buy certain products and to increase visitor spending. It’s a successful strategy.

“Our sulphur pools have an iconic smell – some have likened it to rotten eggs but we prefer to think of it as freshly cut lawn with a mud base.

“You only need to look at Rotorua to see how successfully it can attract visitors to a destination – we’re looking to walk in that iconic destination’s footsteps.”

The smellitiser system has been carefully crafted and tested over a number of months to ensure that it is safe and enjoyable for Hanmer Springs residents. The smell will be diffused at low levels throughout the town using a specially designed system, which will allow for consistent and controlled distribution.

TOP 10 Holiday Park manager Liesl Grounds is looking forward to hosting one of the smellitiser units in their reception area.

“Beyond the unique and memorable sensory element, this will also provide our guests with the health benefits of hydrogen sulphide. It’s just one more way that we can enhance our guests’ well-being and satisfaction during their stay.”

As visitor numbers have steadily improved since COVID-19, the new initiative is expected to entice visitors over the winter.

“By introducing the thermal aroma, we are creating a unique and memorable experience for visitors to Hanmer Springs,” says Graeme. “This has worked for our friends in Rotorua, and we know it will work for us.”

And if you believe that you’ll believe anything. We were about to climb on the high horse and start a rave about who wanted the town to smell like a fart when we noticed this release was date stamped April 1st

Assets.

A few personal holiday thoughts.

As autumn approaches, the golden colours and falling leaves are upon us, we celebrate new beginnings with easter. As a young father in the UK we took boiled and painted eggs and rolled them competitively down the hill. Lots of opportunities to do that here. Lovely to see us continuing the German inspired Easter Bunny visiting the village for our young. What a great day out for the children. Do you know that the ears of a chocolate bunny are the most commonly eaten first part of the bunny. I have to say I keep the ears until last. And the advice here in Australia is to save money and paint potatoes.

But our beautiful forests are a wonderful asset. The Forest Amble is now approaching 2000 visitors per week. That is amazing numbers and cost free. The sculptures are wonderful and they often surprise as you look up or turn a corner. But whilst the walk may be free the time and effort put into the walk by the Hanmer Heritage Forest Trust is considerable. They along with other volunteers notably Mark Inglis, maintain and gravel the tracks for our benefit. A back breaking and time-consuming affair. Thank you.

Conical Hill too is Hanmer's Iconic walk. The pilgrimage for fitness and views, is taken daily by many. It is easy to underestimate what an icon and asset the hill is to the village. From the naked hill beginnings with the zigzag path gouged into it, surely it is worthy of heritage status.

The many walks, trails, MTB tracks and bridle paths through our forests, alongside rivers and up to mountains and waterfalls are perhaps Hanmer's greatest wonder and assets.

Writing this from Byron Bay, I have walked many a beach, busy and quiet, climbed regularly up to the lighthouse and down, I can honestly say I am in awe of our village and its assets, and there are so many ways we can freely burn off the chocolate calories and connect with our wonderful nature. Hanmer I am missing you.

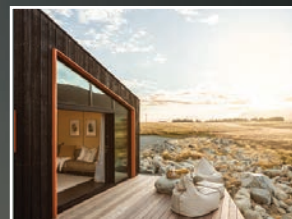

Shout out for Barry and Marguerite and The Hanmer Springs Film Club coming on the 27th April at the Golf Club. Well done.

Please let me know if you have any concerns or items worthy of celebration in our village. Should we have a local hero column in the Pinkie, I can think of many worthy recipients. Shout out to Grum too undertaking an incredible cycling adventure in Mexico and Central America. Scary but exciting stuff.

PROTECTING OUR LANDSCAPE FROM WILDING PINES

WHAT'S WRONG WITH PINES IN THE LANDSCAPE?

'Wilding pines' include several species of introduced conifer, which are self-seeded.

Unlike well-managed plantation forests, wildings are tree weed infestations. They grow and spread fast, doing more harm than good. They soak up water, smother native ecosystems and productive land, and cost more to control the bigger they get.

In the years ahead, a dark blanket of conifers could replace our unique and fragile ecosystems including habitats for at-risk and threatened species. A lot of work is going on to protect what we've got.

Hanmer Springs School Pinkie Report Week 10, 2023

Journalists - Sharnie Inglis, Amelia Nelson, Kiara Bratschi, Bryant.

Teeball.

On Monday the 3rd of April 2023 the year 3s and 4s went to a tee ball tournament at Scargill domain. We set up our tarpaulin and put our bags on it. My team was the home team so we stayed at station 3. We played different schools. The rules are that you have a bat and you hit the ball off the tee, then you have to run around the bases and stop at any of them. There will be fielders watching the bases. After lunch we got back to work and on the very last game we played our own school. My team won by one point. It was fun and very exciting. Next year I will be doing softball. By Aaliya

Soft ball competition.

On Monday the 3rd of April I went to the softball tournament. The year 5's and 6's were split into two teams, we played 8 games in total playing other schools. I hit four home runs in the tournament and hit the ball very far out.

By Jamilah

I accidentally got a home run as the other team kept throwing the ball over each other's heads. We worked well as a team encouraging each other and helping each other and helping our teammates that got hurt. We had loads of fun playing and it was awesome representing Hanmer Springs School.

GRIP student leadership day

Some student leaders of Hanmer Springs School woke up very early on Wednesday morning and arrived at school at the early hours of the day. We arrived at the conference at about 9am and went into a huge conference room. There were about 300 students from intermediate and 100 from secondary school. It was really fun and we did lots of fun activities like speed tests, quizzes and I even got called up to say the alphabet backwards. It was really fun and I hope to do it next year at high school

Christchurch Symphony Orchestra visit.

On Thursday morning, the Christchurch Symphony Orchestra visited our school to teach us how to read music, and have some fun! They gave us a fun morning by showing us the Clarinet, Oboe, Bassoon, Trombone and Viola. They then took every class and taught them basics about music. Karearea got taught how to read music and had a drum off with the guests. I loved it and hope we do it again.

Vietnamese pork and pineapple noodles

Ingredients

- 300g leftover roast pork (with crackling)
- 200g dried vermicelli noodles
- 500g pineapple, peeled, cored, cut into batons
- 1 medium Lebanese cucumber, cut into batons
- 1 cup fresh coriander leaves
- 1 cup fresh mint leaves
- 4 green onions, thinly sliced diagonally
- 1 small red onion, thinly sliced
- 2 1/2 tbsp lemon juice
- 2 tbsp fish sauce
- 1 tbsp brown sugar

Method

Step 1

Remove crackling from pork. Cut meat into batons. Preheat oven to 250C/230C fan-forced. Line a baking tray with foil. Place crackling on tray. Roast for 10 minutes or until reheated and crisp. Place on a plate lined with paper towel. Using kitchen scissors, roughly cut crackling into pieces. Step 2

Meanwhile, place noodles in a heatproof bowl. Cover with boiling water. Stand for 5 minutes or until tender. Drain. Rinse. Drain. Transfer to a large bowl.

Step 3

Add pork, pineapple, cucumber, coriander, mint, green onion and red onion to noodles. Place lemon juice, fish sauce and sugar in a small bowl. Stir until sugar has dissolved. Drizzle lemon juice mixture over noodle mixture. Toss to coat. Sprinkle with crackling. Serve.

Vietnamese Spring Rolls with Pork and Shrimp

Goi Cuon Tom Thit is a refreshing appetizer made up of shrimp, pork, vermicelli noodles, and an assortment of vegetables rolled in rice paper. They are served at room temperature with a creamy peanut sauce or nuoc Cham.

INGREDIENTS

- 2 lbs shrimp (peeled and deveined)
- 1 lb pork belly (substitute with pork shoulder for a leaner version)
- 1 shallot (peel and slice thin)
- 1 14-oz bag thin rice vermicelli
- Assortment of vegetables and herb (lettuce, bean sprouts, sorrel, perilla, garlic chives, mint, etc.)
- Vietnamese peanut dipping sauce or nuoc cham
- 1 package 12-oz dried rice paper

INSTRUCTIONS

To a medium pot, add water and shallots. If you have other aromatics such as ginger or green onions, add those too. Bring the pot to a boil. Add shrimp and cook until they turn color (about 3 minutes). Remove from pot and slice in half along the backside. Set aside.

Read notes below if pork belly has an odor. Add pork belly to the now empty pot and cook for 30 minutes or until chopstick-tender. Remove pork, rinse, and pat dry. Once cooled, slice thinly and set aside.

Cook rice noodles per package instructions. Drain, rinse with cold water, and set aside.

Assemble the rolls: Wet the rice paper quickly and shake off excess water. The rice paper will only take 10 seconds to become pliable. On the bottom end of the rice paper, add a bed of noodles, vegetables of your choice, and pork belly slices. Start rolling everything up from the bottom, tightly tucking and rolling. Fold in the sides when you are halfway up. Add the shrimp, facing down, toward the other end of the rice paper. This will make the shrimp stand out and look more appetising. Continue to roll up to seal.

Serve with Vietnamese peanut sauce.

Encouraging local enthusiasm for reserve beautification

When communities work together on their reserves, a lot can be achieved.

This is just some feedback that has come out of the review of Hurunui District Council's (HDC) Reserves Management Plan.

Community committees and reserves committees around the District are being asked for their feedback and thoughts around how to best use their recreation and local purpose reserves.

Chief Operations Officer Dan Harris said the Plan's review takes place every 10 years, providing a good opportunity to collate feedback and have a close look at the District's green spaces.

"Generally, people are really happy with the way the reserves are looking and how they're being used."

He said in some reserves community groups just get on and do things, like managing their own maintenance and plantings, which is great.

Undertaking this review also feeds into creating funding streams for projects and developments.

"We look at the reserve's individual policies including amenity and native planting, development of walkways, and what people would like to see in the future."

For local groups to have working bees to trim or remove request to HDC, including a health and safety plan and a planting plan under the Tree Management Policy and Reserves Act.

At Motunau Beach, the green fingered enthusiasm amongst the community is in abundance.

Working within these guidelines, Motunau Beach campground manager and President of Motunau Beach Residents and Ratepayers' Association Kalvyn Schenkel has cut down trees he deems a fire risk, and undertaken maintenance.

He encourages everyone to work within the guidelines, because when everyone is on the same page and working towards the same goal, community work in the reserves is harmonious.

"We want to do intelligent planting and sustainable planting, this means species which won't be a fire hazard, and will help stabilise hillsides."

Harris agreed with Schenkel, saying the more work that can be done in reserves from a local level, the better.

"Having the right people in each community to ensure the work can be done smartly and safely is important, and it's encouraging that there are these people out there."

The Council's Tree Management Policy will be going out for wider consultation soon.
