To Whom It May Concern

As a resident who lives in Hanmer Springs and regularly reads the Pinkie I was very disappointed to read the article "Rotherham Has Something We Don't."

This article was a misrepresentation of the school, and written in a very derogatory way. And the information was incorrect. Rotherham School had no say in whether the killing of feral cats competition was to be scrapped or not. And this was definitely not a publicity stunt.

In fact, due to the media misleading people, our little country school has received multiple death threats, accusing us of being a bunch of teachers who have psychological issues who are teaching children, and that the school should be closed down. And even today we are still receiving hate mail. Sadly people have felt it their right to go through our Facebook page and post hate emoji's on every photograph of children and the school activities. Unfortunately the media is the reason we have been targeted. We have no involvement in this competition apart from receiving the funds. We do not make the decisions, but articles pointing out our school has made us a target. So hopefully you can see why I am deeply disappointed in this article that has been written.

Yours sincerely
Rachel Howser

(Dear Rachel - It was never our intention to denigrate Rotherham School nor do we believe it was a publicity stunt. We were merely pointing out that Rotherham had received world-wide publicity - a quick Google search will turn up all those international media names in response to the simple search 'Rotherham' and we can hardly be blamed for that.

We are fully aware that the actions of one or two thoughtless people can impinge on the whole township. Perhaps it is a good lesson for all of us to take great care with people organising fund raisers on our behalf. The fact you have had death threats is inexcusable and the fact that Facebook has been used is typical of a dangerous social media that we eschew for the very reasons you outline.

If what was in the Pinkie upset you, then we are sorry, but we feel it is a case of not shooting the messenger and have never at any stage taken any stand either for or against shooting feral cats, despite personal views on the subject.

Somebody among the organisers of the competition should have thought about what a can of worms they were opening with previous instances of felicide incurring the wrath of nutters who place the lives of cats above those of our native bird life.

Having lived in the Amuri since birth I am well aware of the great work done by Rotherham school and wish them nothing but the best. If you care to forward your bank account number we will happily make a donation to the school's library fund. Ed)

American Style Banana Pancakes

For the fluffiest results, be sure to mix this banana-and-buttermilk pancake batter as minimally as possible. Fold it just until streaks of flour have disappeared but not enough to smooth out the lumps. As they sizzle in plenty of melted butter, they will puff up and develop crisp edges and fluffy, tender interiors. Keep the cooked pancakes warm on a rack in a 200-degree oven while cooking off the rest of the batter and they will all stay hot and ready for serving.

INGREDIENTS

2 cups/256 grams unbleached all-purpose flour
 2 tablespoons (light or dark) brown sugar
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 ½ teaspoon baking soda
 ½ teaspoon sea salt
 1¼ cups/300 milliliters buttermilk
 1 cup/230 grams mashed banana (from 2 to 3 very ripe bananas)
 2 large eggs
 3 tablespoons/43 grams unsalted butter, melted and cooled slightly, plus more as needed
 Maple syrup (optional), for serving

Step 1 In a large bowl, whisk together the flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. In a medium bowl, whisk together the buttermilk, banana, eggs and melted butter until smooth.

Step 2 Add the wet ingredients to the dry ingredients. Use the whisk to fold the batter together, but stop before the mixture is smooth and fully combined. The batter should be lumpy. Set the batter aside to rest.

Step 3. Heat a medium nonstick skillet over medium. Add about 1 tablespoon of butter and let it melt and start to bubble. Working in batches, drop about a scant ¼ cup per pancake in the heated pan. Let cook until the edges are set and bubbles start to appear in the center, about 2 minutes. Flip and cook until the pancakes are set throughout, another 1 to 2 minutes. Transfer to a wire rack. Wipe out the pan if the butter starts to burn, then repeat, cooking off the remaining batter and adding butter between batches as needed.

Step 4 Serve pancakes warm, with butter and maple syrup, if desired.

Korean Pressure Cooker Glazed Pork Belly

This hearty braise requires minimal ingredients and makes use of a pressure cooker to reduce hours of work into just 45 minutes of hands-off cooking. The pork belly soaks up the Korean-inspired marinade of soy sauce, garlic, ginger and scallions, and a good dose of black pepper balances the sweet-salty flavours. To finish, the cooking liquid is reduced into a silky sauce that glazes the meat. Serve the tender pork in crisp fresh lettuce cups to balance the richness of the meat.

¾ cup soy sauce
 2 scallions, finely chopped (about ¼ cup)
 3 tablespoons granulated sugar
 2 tablespoons minced fresh garlic
 2 tablespoons minced fresh ginger
 3 dried shiitake mushrooms
 Sea salt and black pepper
 1½ kg skin-on pork belly, sliced lengthwise 1-inch-thick then cut into 4-inch pieces
 Steamed rice, lettuce cups, kimchi and gochujang, for serving

PREPARATION

Step 1 In a pressure cooker, combine soy sauce, scallions, sugar, garlic, ginger, mushrooms and 1 teaspoon black pepper, and mix well. Lightly season pork belly with salt and pepper, and add to cooker. Toss pork in the sauce, massaging the sauce into the meat. Arrange pork in an even layer on top of the sauce. Lock pressure cooker lid in place and set steam vent to sealing position. Select high pressure and cook for 30 minutes. Let pressure release naturally.

Step 2 Transfer pork and mushrooms to a large plate. Carefully pour liquid into a fat separator or large bowl and degrease. Return liquid to the pressure cooker. Using the sauté function, simmer until reduced to about ½ cup, 10 to 15 minutes.

Step 3 Meanwhile, thinly slice the mushrooms. Once the liquid is reduced, add the pork and mushrooms to the cooker and simmer, stirring, until warmed through and evenly coated in the sauce, about 3 minutes. Transfer to a serving platter and spoon the sauce on top.

Step 4 Serve with steamed rice, lettuce cups, kimchi and gochujang. Cut pork into bite-size pieces, wrap and enjoy.

Hanmer Netball Club

Weekly Results

Senior Team

The Senior team had two games:

Our first match of the day Senior A vs Waiau B.

The shooters, while up against some tight defence, moved around beautifully in the circle creating good space to receive the ball and capture rebounds (not that there were many!) Throughout the mid-court the team focused on slowing down play and balancing the court to create space and opportunity for the ball to move efficiently down the court.

The defenders worked tirelessly and incredibly well as a team! It was awesome to see so many tips and intercepts. The final score was 35/13, a true testament to the work that everyone put in on the court. The Monteiths Brewery Bar player of the match was Cassidy Gray for her consistent work as C.

Senior A vs Culverden A

Hanmer had a strong win 34/23. An awesome second game, from the defence to mid court to shooting circle. Although down in the 1st quarter, came back to win to win the game. It was a strong performance with great combinations. A very flowing game all round! Monteiths Brewery Bar Player of the Match went to Ella Cole in the shooting circle.

Under 14yrs Team

The under 14's had a bye this week but travelled to Culverden to play and friendly/training match against the Culverden A team.

This was a great chance for these girls to test out the skills they have learnt to date against a very strong team. All 7 girls did a magnificent job (no subs) and I am very pleased to advise that they stuck at the game and showed real determination and team spirit.

The Fire and Ice most improved player was Charlie Bryant for her excellent defence at GD.

Future Ferns

The Future Ferns won their game (not sure of the score as they are not officially counted!) The Toy Shop player of the day was Lillie Wilson.

Hanmer Springs School Pinkie Report Term 2 Week 2

Journalists - Amelia Saric, Amelia Nelson, Rosie Abbott, Charlie Bryant, Sharnie Inglis.

Debate.

This week we had the first debate against a strong team from Woodend School in the North Canterbury Debate Competition. The debate topic was 'NZ Schools should change to a 4 day school week.' Our three speakers Preeti, Sharnie, and Amelia N had to argue for a five day school week, whilst Woodend argued for a 4 day week. Some of the arguments for a five day week included: parents wouldn't like their children to have an extra day off because of child care; teachers already have 12 weeks holidays and don't need any more extra time off and students will be better off academically with their reading, writing and maths with more time at school. The girls showed our school values of Excellence/Hiranga and Resilience/Pakari throughout the debate and when responding to the other team debate rebuttals. Our second team of Levi, Charlie and Anika will be travelling to Ashley later in the month to debate 'That Crocs and better than jandals'.

Nature walk and Nature art.

The Year 1 class went into the forest on Wednesday for a nature walk. We were looking for colourful autumn leaves to collect so that we could make some leaf artwork. We found so many different coloured leaves, red ones, yellow ones and orange ones. We found long leaves and big leaves and different shaped leaves. We listened to some korimako birds singing their beautiful songs. We had fun walking in the scrunchy leaves and enjoyed throwing them up into the air. On Thursday we made our animal leaf artwork. We chose the leaves we needed for the different shapes and carefully arranged them to make our animals. Then we used lots of glue to make sure the leaves were stuck down properly. We got quite sticky fingers and had lots of fun making our animals. Thank you to the parents who came along on our walk and who helped us with making our art.

Packing Marathon bags

On the 4th of May, a big surprise was waiting for the Y7/8s in Karearea class. At morning tea a forklift drove into the school carrying a huge stack of water bottles, lots of pins and 700 muesli bars. After lunch we got four boxes with about 700 bags in them for us to pack. First we put four safety pins into the top rim, then we gave it to a runner who went around the classroom collecting one museli bar and one water bottle. We packed the bags into boxes in the back room ready for the Four Square Half Marathon at the weekend. We did this as part of our community service for the William Pike challenge that our class are completing.

Inquiry walk

Yesterday on the 4th of May 2023 the Year 3, 4, 5 and 6s went on an inquiry walk. They have been learning about Whakapapa and Migration during the year. The students were paired up and given a sheet to fill out. They had to find out three things about Thomas Hanmer and they had to note down the street names they passed whilst walking up to Conical Hill.

Some things they found out are:

- Thomas Hanmer was born in 1827 and died in 1892.
- Hanmer Springs was named after Thomas Hanmer and he moved to Queensland, Australia in 1857.
- Rutherford Crescent is named after Duncan Rutherford of Leslie Hills.
- Where each of the school house mountains are located - Isobel, Dumblane, Miriomiro and Percival.

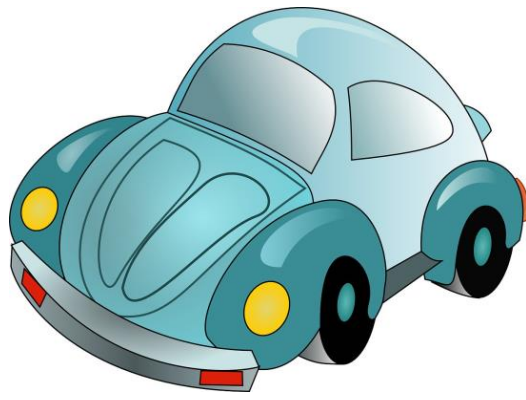

We thank Larissa and Kirsty Gavin for coming on the walk with us and John Dawber who came on the walk and brought everyone a special treat for making it up to the top!

Use of the Community Vehicle

Do you:

- Need to see a doctor in Hanmer or specialist in Christchurch, but don't have your own transport?
- Stay at home for long periods of time, as you don't have access to transport?
- Struggle to get involved in the community due to lack of transport?
- Have limited access to services outside the village, such as going to a bank?
- Rarely get to see friends, family/whānau and acquaintances outside our village?

Then the community transport vehicle may be able to help you. If you are unsure whether we can help give us a call.

Simply call 020 4091 0704 to book the Community Car for appointments at the Health Centre or in Christchurch, including specialists, dentists, opticians or services such as a bank.

Please give us as much notice as possible - ideally at least 72 hours so we can organise a driver.

Computer fixer

With the sad passing of John Hewitt the town now has nobody actively repairing computers, something the Village is going to need.

The Pinkie has received a host of calls looking for information on the subject but we are just as in the dark as any of you.

If you are a computer expert and living in Hanmer Springs please let us know.

There is a definite need for a service here, which sadly we cannot provide although one or two have been a tad annoyed that we are unable to fix what ails their machine, especially since we are only familiar with Macs, honestly.

We did price a Christchurch service with whom we have previously dealt but as well as their hourly rate being double John's, they also want travelling expenses to come to Hanmer.

Perhaps we can find someone who is suitable and organise a system whereby several people can get together to cover the travel costs.

Ideas are needed

Restoration and Earthquake Strengthening Soldiers' Block, Hanmer Springs.

Community Information evening:

Hanmer Springs Library

Monday May 15th

6-7pm

This will be straight after the community drop-in session for the 'Draft Annual Plan' which is from 5-6pm.

No frills for the Draft Annual Plan, key services maintained.

Sticking to the game plan will be the proposed way forward as Hurunui District Council sends its Draft Annual Plan out to its community to see what it thinks.

It was adopted in its entirety in Chambers at May's Council meeting this morning, unanimous agreement from Councillors for a dedicated effort to stick to the District's Long Term Plan (LTP) 2021/31 programme.

Chief Financial Officer Jason Beck emphasised that times are financially tough for many at the moment with high interest rates and inflation. The Council is not immune from these challenges, therefore no projects outside of what is deemed totally necessary for the District's upkeep and maintenance will be happening for the pending financial year.

"The proposed rates increase for the Hurunui District of 7.49% reflects this."

Beck explained the LTP budget for 2021-31 was based on assumptions that were appropriate at the time, a period of very low inflation ranging from 2.5% to 3.0% and an interest rate assumption of 2.39%

"The Consumer Price Index released for the December 2022 quarter showed an annual increase to prices of 7.2%, which is the highest level for 30 years and current interest rates sit above 5.00%.

To offset the current economic climate: the net dividend received from the Hanmer Springs Thermal Pools and Spa, used to offset rates, has been increased; there has been a reduction in budgets for reserves maintenance outside of core tasks (although communities have been provided with a small addition to the Reserves Contestable Funding for projects); and there will be no increase for the next 12 months to the earthquake-prone buildings rate.

Areas where Council has not made reductions is roading service levels, reduction of roading debt, three waters projects, and community grants/awards.

"But by sticking to core services and doing the basics well, we still endeavour to reduce the roading debt by $900,000," said Beck.

Mayor Marie Black said the challenge of inflation was always one that Council was planning for within its 10-year LTP, and adjusting where money is channelled within the District is an effective way of still ensuring key services are maintained.

"This is the path we must take for the time being, as a Council we continually reassess where funds must go, to keep key services at a level where our District still runs efficiently."

During the next month there will be a number of District-wide public meetings and drop-in sessions to provide feedback on the Draft Annual Plan, and feedback can be provided online or via email.

Also in Chambers this morning, the Draft Waste Management and Minimisation Plan Statement of Proposal was adopted, the Plan is out for Public Consultation at the moment, alongside the list of Statutory Fees and Charges which were also adopted in their draft form and are out for Public Consultation.

More information about these three topics and how to have your say can be found online, by looking under Alerts/Consultations on the Council's website www.hurunui.govt.nz

Or give Council a ring and you will be directed.

The final date for public submissions and feedback is Tuesday June 6th, the day after King's Birthday Weekend.

we gain on the swings we lose on the roundabouts, but we have some of the finest water and we live in natural beauty.

Congratulations to Hanmer Events and Hanmer Holiday Homes for a fantastically run and successful Four Square Half Marathon. From start to finish the professionalism and the participation was first class. Let's give the volunteers a big shout out for helping make the event so successful. So many happy smiling faces.

The previous weekends opening of the Hanmer Springs Bowling Club was also a resounding success. 16 teams from all over Canterbury attended and there was a great competition. A testimony to all the hard work the Bowling Club have put in to create one of the best and most picturesque Bowling Clubs in the country. It was very enjoyable looking at the Bowling Club and Hanmer Springs through the eyes of visitors. Sometimes we take for granted the beauty of our village and its location and it needs outsiders to remind us just what we have. I highly recommend you get down there, and use the old bowls left there and give it a go. The competitiveness was quite surprising, and Sharon Brown, Stacey Inglis and myself were pleasantly shocked to come in the medal winning teams. Competitive, me, surely not.

Watch out for Mayor Marie Black coming to Hanmer on the 15th May, for a "Speed Dating" presentation of Long Term Plans for Hurunui and discussions on our finances. Watch out too for some important announcements on The Soldiers Blocks. This promises to be an exciting and busy year.

Amidst the fun, competition and excitement let us not forget that we have sadly lost a few of our locals this year.

Last but no means least a big shout out for Paul Walmsley, one of our village hero's. Constantly working for our Medical Centre, St John's, Our Community Car and so much more. His hard work, diligence and professionalism ensure that we enjoy first class medical facilities right here in the village.

Have a great week.

Tom Davies

A Few Personal Ponderings

There have been some exceptionally busy weekends in Hanmer. It is great to see the village buzzing with visitors. The energy tourists bring is fantastic and it is wonderful that our shops bars and restaurants all appear to be busy and bustling with that energy too.

Rates rises are never far from our thoughts in these trying times. Interest rates, rising prices and international events are hitting prices worldwide and our economy, so dependent on imports, has obviously been hit hard. But I am sure our major exporters of forestry and dairy are successfully grappling with international price fluctuations. Property prices in Hanmer have been extremely buoyant recently and on the one hand we have the benefit of knowing our homes are worth considerably more than before, this also impacts upon our rates and we will be paying more than most. That means that what

The Liability – Friday 19 May 6.40pm

The Liability is a British black comedy crime-thriller film directed by Craig Viveiros and written by John Wrathall. The film stars Tim Roth, Talulah Riley, Jack O'Connell and Peter Mullan.

It's about a young and naive 19-year-old slacker, Adam, who lives with his mum in the home of her intimidating gangster boyfriend, Peter. After crashing the family car and posting the crash on social media, Adam is confronted by Peter to face the music. While waiting, he snoops and inadvertently views an incriminating video on Peter's laptop.

Peter sends Adam, as partial reparation for the car damage, to conduct a day of driving for his associate. This takes Adam on the road with aging hitman, Roy... from there, it all gets complex.
