To The Editor,

As regular visitors to Hanmer Springs we have always picked up a copy of your publication in the Four Square whenever there were any left in the box.

We have been coming to Hanmer since the publication was only a couple of sheets of paper. Of late we have been picking it up through your website and must say that it is a great little publication that we would doubt has any equal in a town of this size in New Zealand.

As such we were very sorry to see your piece in this week's edition that it is under threat despite the fact you are supplying it to those who want for free, or is it because of it being free. Surely businesses in Hanmer Springs would be prepared to support your endeavours with a little advertising as we see you go out to nearly one thousand people. As the owners of a second home in Hanmer we rely on The Pinkie for information and in the past we have even used your number to telephone you and ask for information, often about trades people.

Surely, the businesses and organisations in Hanmer will support your continuing to do such a wonderful job. As people who pick it up on a weekly basis we would be happy to contribute and if you care to send us a bank account number we will be delighted to pay a subscription.

Can you not charge people who are receiving it, we know that there used to be a cover price.

Please don't let The Pinkie disappear

R & M McDonald

Editor's response

Dear Mr & Mrs McDonald

It is heartening to know that somebody out there cares. The idea of the reinstatement of a cover price is really no longer practical since we have a website up and running where people such as yourselves can read it from every Monday morning. Currently it is being produced as a labour of love with the hope that a change in the seasons may see an increase in advertising.

Thank you very much for your email. It helps in continuing to do the job at hand.

Richard

Letter from China; A few snippets.

Greetings from a warm and sunny Hangzhou. It was sad to miss the opening of the new slides at The Hot Pools and Spa this week, that is a treat I will just have to wait for. But they do look fast and exciting.

In a city of 10 million it is amazing to not see or hear English spoken and it was a great pleasure this week to catch up with Tamara Yuille-Proctor who is working as a teacher in China. Lovely to hear a kiwi accent and enjoy some good Kiwi humour.

Retail has changed immeasurably here. The face of retail is now online shopping and next day delivery for virtually everything nonfood. With very fast returns if the item doesn't suit. Food can be delivered almost instantly any time of day and night. Run out of bread and milk? 20 minutes to your apartment block, left in a safe place in a society where trust is high and crime very low.

We visited an old part of Hangzhou the other day alongside the Hangzhou Beijing Canal. The canal was built 2,500 years ago and is approx. 1,800km long. A huge achievement built in about 6 years, dug out by hand. The old town alongside it is quintessential China. Narrow streets, hustle and bustle, red lanterns and beautiful shuttered windows and individual boutiques.

Stone arch bridges beautifully lit at night make it very picturesque and photo opportunities abound. The retail of the past has been replaced with coffee shops, tea house and boutiques and crafts. All very different, no national or international names, just small-scale producers.

There is a huge number of cats here and a large number of day stay catteries. These are high profile establishments with play spaces for cats on the street front. They have every toy imaginable and in glass cages these cats sleep and play while their owners are working, and they provide humour and entertainment for passersby.

Along from the old town is an amazing park. Think of the oil and gas depot at Naval Point Lyttelton. This has a similar area here but has been converted into an art and park area. The oil storage containers are now coffee shops (inc Starbucks) and art shops and entertainment venues. What an amazing place connected with walkways and modernistic canopies and open-air theatres, they have converted a derelict site into a most fantastic park. One not to be missed and to be revisited.

We are into our last week here and then we will be moving on to attend our nieces wedding in Liverpool UK.

Woke up to the news to find The All Blacks have succeeded where few expected and have beaten Ireland in the world cup. Great news, I will catch up with the replay soon.

It is Sunday morning here and I am off to a 3-hour lecture soon. Work here is incessant. Lecturers often work 7 days a week, often until very late at night. It is a country that never sleeps.

I will leave you on a note of food. The food is fantastic and unbelievably varied. A highlight is prawns braised in local tea. Pork and meat are in virtually everything. The Chinese do have a sweet tooth and one delight we have found is kumara chips with plum powder on top. No salt or chicken seasoning, sweet plum powder. Absolutely delicious.

Hope you are all safe and well and surviving the winds and power outages. Thinking of you all. Take care stay safe and warm.

Councillor Tom Davies.

Pinkie Report

Term 4 Week 1

Journalists - Amelia Saric, Rosie Abbott, Amelia Nelson, Sharnie Inglis, Charlie Bryant, Kiara Bratschi

Thermal Pools Slide opening.

On Wednesday morning the head students and deputy head students went to the opening of the new slides. Marie Black and Graeme Abbott were amongst the people that opened the new slides named the Violet Vortex and the Waiiau Winder. The Violet Vortex was fast and had cool lights and the Waiiau Winder was a little slower but had really cool projections of fish and other sea creatures. It also had cool lights.

Miromiro wins Thermal Pools visit.

On Thursday afternoon Miromiro house (about 25 children) got to go to the hot pools for coming second in our house competition (the prize was donated by winning house Pervical who have won before). It was really fun, especially with the Waiiau Winder and the Violet Vortex being open. The new lights made the slides really fun. Thanks to the pools for giving us free entry.

Rodin Cars Trip.

Club Ora visited Rodin cars last term. They really enjoyed their trip with Mrs Brett and Emily and had so much fun looking through the factory and looking at all of the cars. Here is a photo of them all with one of the cars. Thank you to Rodin Cars for allowing this group to visit.

Swimming Pool news.

Thank you soooooo much to the team from the Thermal Pools that helped us get our swimming pool painted during the school holidays!

Our cleaner and holiday caretaker, Mike, did lots of hard mahi during the holidays, along with Fi, Tori, and Mr McB. You can see the difference in the before and after photos.

Piwakawaka class learning about Moa.

This term the NE/Y1 students are learning about extinct birds and creatures from Aotearoa. They have been learning about the moa. They have learnt some interesting facts about moa which they wanted to share. They have drawn some pictures of moa as well.

A moa was a flightless bird that used to live in Aotearoa. They are extinct as they are no longer living. The giant moa was taller than a human.

The Haast eagle was a predator of the moa. Their huge claws grabbed onto the moa and killed them. People also hunted moa for food. Hunters would hide in the bushes and jump out and kill the moa with spears. People also burned land so that they could farm crops, this burning killed some moa as well.

Moa had long necks and brown shaggy feathers. They had three toes and a claw at the back of their foot. The moa laid giant eggs which were about the size of a rugby ball.

Moa skeletons have been discovered in Pyramid Valley near Waikari. They have found some moa bones which have damage on them like Haast eagle claw marks. More than 180 have been found there.

Cerebral Palsy Mufti Day.

On Friday the 13th our school had a mufti day with a gold coin donation to support Kiwis living with cerebral palsy. It was great to see everybody dressed in green to support the cause. We raised $178.60. People with cerebral palsy have differing symptoms, some people can't walk, some find talking difficult. You are born with the condition. Cerebral means having to do with the brain and palsy means weakness or problems with using the muscles. Premature babies are more susceptible to having cerebral palsy. We raised the money as one of our students, Pippa-Renee, has cerebral palsy. She gave the following speech in our assembly:

Hi, my name is Pippa-Renee. I've had cerebral palsy for my whole life. It has affected me in my left arm and left leg. I can't do monkey bars as well as other people because of the cerebral palsy in my left arm. When I was little I couldn't run in a straight line because of my left leg. Other people have different kinds of cerebral palsy such as not being able to walk, not being able to talk as well as others or struggling to walk up stairs.

We need to donate money to the cerebral palsy society because they need the money to help the people who have it have a better life. Thank you.

COME FOR THE DAY. COME FOR THE WEEKEND.

Return of the black-fronted tern

It's that time of the year where you may notice a unique bird returning to the Hurunui district's braided rivers to breed throughout the summer. This is the Nationally Endangered tarapirohe/ black-fronted tern.

Black-fronted terns are a small grey bird with an orange beak and legs, and distinctive black cap and forked tail. They can often be seen or heard soaring above Hanmer Springs during sunsets catching insects, along with flitting up and down the Clarence River in search for food. They are known to dive-bomb intruders too close to their nests.

They are particularly important to the Hurunui District as it's one of the few places in New Zealand where they breed.

Over the last ten years, Wildlife Management International Limited (WMIL), in partnership with Environment Canterbury (ECan) and the Department of Conservation (DOC), have been monitoring and protecting black-fronted terns along the Clarence, Acheron, Waiau and Hurunui rivers.

Unfortunately, black-fronted terns are estimated to decline by 50% over the next three decades.

Introduced predators are one of the greatest threats these birds face. Each year, predation by feral cats, ferrets, stoats, hedgehogs, harriers, and Southern black-backed gulls cause around 30% of nests to fail. To mitigate these impacts, WMIL has set up a trap line along 23km of the Clarence River which is serviced fortnightly by J & S Mears Contracting. These traps ensure that predator numbers are reduced, decreasing the risk of predation.

Flooding of nests, and heat exhaustion of hatched chicks can also cause a large percentage of nests to fail. Island enhancements are carried out to help elevate the level of some islands as well as enhance channels surrounding the islands. This creates safer nesting habitat for black-fronted terns.

Small, wooden chick shelters are also placed on some colonies to provide chicks with shade from extreme heat.

When you're visiting the Clarence River during summer, it's always important to be wary of nesting birds and give them space. But if you get too close to a tern nest, they'll be sure to let you know.

Baylee Connor-McClean
Ecologist at WMIL
baylee@wmil.co.nz

Baylee will be en situ monitoring the birds for the fifth season in a row and has promised the Pinkie monthly updates from the Clarence on how the nesting of these endangered birds is progressing.
